

July 7th 2021

To All Students,

Academic Affairs Department
Educational Division

Classes after July 8th (Face-to-Face Lectures) (Notice)

All classes are currently offered online until July 8th (Thu) at the University of Fukui in response to Fukui prefecture's own state of emergency. As of now, the number of confirmed cases in Fukui prefecture and Bunkyo campus has been decreasing. We would like to inform you that all classes will be offered basically face-to-face from July 9th (Fri.).

Since class offerings may change depending on the future infection situation, please make sure to check the website of the university.

(Class Policy after June 1st : Repost)

All classes will be basically offered face-to-face on campus and partially online with sufficient consideration given to infection prevention.

General Education	Basically Online (On-demand)
Specialized Education	Basically Face-to-Face (Partially Online) *Classes which have a large number of students may be offered online (On-demand or Real Time) at each school's direction. For details of class offerings, please make sure to check the website of each school or graduate school and the student portal.

【Thorough Infection Prevention Measures according to Student Action Guidelines】

Most of the infection routes of COVID-19 are in the "5 situations" below. To ensure your safety, please follow the "Student Action Guidelines" and make every effort to take infection prevention such as avoiding the "5 situations" that increase the risk of infection.

Situation ① Social gatherings with drinking alcohol

Situation ② Long feasts in large groups (including Karaoke)

Situation ③ Conversations without masks

Situation ④ Living together in a small limited space

Situation ⑤ Switching Locations